The Fifth IJJO International Conference, Criminality or Social Exclusion? Justice for Children in a Divided World, aims to address the impact of the global crises on the administration of justice for children and young people. In the last years, as a result of social and economic polarisation and global crises, growing numbers of children, young people and families are finding themselves at the margins of society where social exclusion and involvement in criminality might constitute a higher risk.

The fight against child labour: the ILO report 'Accelerating Action Against Child Labour' and the 'Child Labour Free India' campaign

IJJO

In many countries - especially in developing countries with high poverty and poor schooling opportunities - children slavery and the lack of legislation to prevent forced and bounded labour of children are still prevalent. This problem has recently been formally recognized as a human right issue. [\[+\]](#)

RESEARCH AND THESIS

SPAIN

Isabel de Blas Mesón. Judicial secretary of the Provincial Court in Santa Cruz de Tenerife

The juvenile delinquency is a social phenomenon that raises awareness and mobilizes the public and especially the media. The press, in this sense, takes the responsibility of exposing this information discourse in its real dimensions and has to do everything possible so that the rights and duties of the juvenile offenders are known and publicly discussed by the receiver, and thus forming a real public debate on the political agenda insular. [\[+\]](#)
