EUROPE

The IJJO publishes 'Research and Selection of the Most Effective Juvenile Restorative Justice Practices in Europe: Snapshots from 28 EU Member States'

OIJJ

The IJJO in conjunction with its think tank the European Council for Juvenile Justice (ECJJ) has just released Volume I of its 'European Research on Restorative Juvenile Justice'. This volume, entitled 'Research and Selection of the Most Effective Juvenile Restorative Justice Practices in Europe: Snapshots from 28 EU Member States' analyses the existing restorative practices across the EU, and is the basis for the best practices recommended in Volume II, the 'European Model for Restorative Justice with Children and Young People', soon to be published.

Analysis of international practices on prevention of juvenile violence and their adaptation to a Colombian context

OIJJ

The EUROSociAL programme has published "Vetas de transferencia de 7 prácticas internacionales en prevención de la delincuencia juvenil: análisis de adaptabilidad al contexto colombiano" (Transferring 7 International Practices in the Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency: Analysing their Adaptability to the Colombian Context), within the domain of public security. Among the practices contained therein, certain potential "reserves" of expertise are identified, from which valuable elements could be gleaned to then enrich the Colombian experience, analysing their adaptability to this country's context. LATIN AMERICA

The IJJO joins the Ministry of Internal Affairs and other Uruguayan authorities in launching a Protocol on Restorative Justice

OIJJ

Over the 13th and 14th of May, the '3rd Seminar on Restorative Justice' was held in Montevideo, organized by the IJJO and led by experts Theo Gavrieldes and Pablo Galain, with Penal Judges, Public Defence Lawyers from the Judicial Branch and Prosecutors from the Public Prosecutor's Office, among others, in attendance. The aim is to compile the necessary resources so that an implementation guide for the Restorative Justice Protocol can be constructed. The guide, in turn, can in this way contribute to crime reduction through increased police efficiency and rehabilitation, resulting from the use of restorative practices. [+]

FRA report on child-friendly justice compares perspectives of professionals across 10 EU States

OIJJ

Every year, among a population of 95 million children in the European Union (Eurostat estimation), approximately 2,500,000 of them could be involved in judicial proceedings. Within this framework, the European Commission's 2011 EU Agenda for the Rights of the Child stressed the need to make justice systems more child-friendly, in order to meet the child's best interests, and guarantee his or her protection and participation in legal proceedings (as his or her testimony is regarded as very important and necessary evidence.) This call led to the publication of the 'Child-friendly justice - Perspectives and experiences of professionals on children's participation in civil and criminal judicial proceedings in 10 EU Member States' by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (FRA). ASIA

Campaign 'No Prison for Children': 16 and 17 year old children should not be judged as adults

OIJJ

'No Prison for Children' is a campaign created to show opposition to the Juvenile Justice Bill 2014 that may be implemented in India, specifically the amendments that have been made to the law in order for children of 16 and 17 years can be judged and imprisoned just like adults. This initiative is being promoted by ProChild, a red of individuals and organizations that work together to protect the rights of children in India. [+]

IJJO INTERVIEWS

FRANCE

Julie Zerlauth-Disc, Coordinator of the 'Ville amie des enfants' program, UNICEF France

Julie Zerlauth-Disc coordinates the UNICEF France 'Ville amie des enfants' (A city that's a friend to the children) program. In particular, she establishes and develops relationships between the local authorities involved in the program. She also played a role in the creation of the UNICEF national opinion project in 2013: "Let's listen to what the children have to say", a study on the social integration of young people, through the voices of young people. 'Ville amie des enfants' is a UNICEF international initiative which links cities together through their engagement with the improvement of young people's well-being. The program is one of action and asks the cities involved to present a detailed proposition of their plans and projects with the objective of improving the situation for young people in that area, primarily focusing on developments in security, health, education and the opinions of young people. The program started in France in 2002 with 12 participants and today has around 240. It allows the participants to benefit from a network of communication and training, and holds an annual conference whose aim is to encourage a dynamic exchange of good practices, ideas and projects.
