Reference Letter

Dear Sir/Madam,

Mr Nikolaos STAMATAKIS has been my student during his undergraduate and doctoral studies in the Department of Sociology (section of Criminology) at Panteion University of Social & Political Sciences, Athens.

In December 2007 he completed his Ph.D. dissertation after he had successfully passed his oral examination. During his studies, I had the chance to realize that he is very serious, hardworking and diligent person, with considerable abilities. As a student, he was able to perform at top level. He demonstrated a great ability in performing various criminological subjects and his contribution in class was appreciated by all. He has a great capacity to be critical and analytical, and he has a high ability to pursue a coherent argument, both orally and in writing.

He had a strong will to pursue his studies and has all the qualifications and the ambition to succeed. Above all, he is stimulating, a mature personality, both psychologically and intellectually, and a very good character.

Therefore, I cordially recommend his doctoral dissertation to be published at the International Juvenile Justice Observatory (IJJO), as I believe that it has all the necessary quality and scientific depth.

If I can be of any further assistance regarding N. STAMATAKIS, please feel free to contact me for any further additional information you may require.

Yours faithfully,

Antonios Maganas
